

WHAT IS CLAIMED IS:

1. A roofing washer dispenser comprising:
 - a barrel having a nose on a distal end thereof and a magazine connected to the barrel, a tube connected to the barrel and a pile of washers
 - 5 received in the tube, a plate connected to the barrel and including a groove defined in a top of the plate, a hole defined through the plate and located beneath of the nose, a feeding device having a pushing plate which is movably engaged with the groove, at least one washer in the groove and pushed by the pushing plate, and
 - 10 a plurality of protrusions extending from an inner periphery of the hole.
2. The roofing washer dispenser as claimed in claim 1, wherein the protrusions are located at an intermediate point of a width of the inner periphery of the hole.